

cowsrus1@ptd.net

Our 33rd Year

www.farmshine.net

FARMSHINE

We rise every week to cover farmers and agribusinesses

Farmshine • Volume 33, Number 9 • $15 one year

Mailed the day before → November 4, 2011

Faith-based management rewarded

At Little Hill Farm in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania, the management philosophy begins with the idea of taking care of what God has provided. Doing what they can themselves, they also employ a profit team in order to gain the most efficient production protocols. The combined efforts result in a healthy herd of Brown Swiss and Holsteins that provide an income and enjoyable lifestyle for two families. What's more, they are the breeders and owners of the lifetime butterfat production leader in the Brown Swiss breed. She is Little Hill Exclaim Lady (EX-93). Pictured with her on the left are Rich and Gale Hill with their children, Eric, 9; and Brian, 6. Also on the left is 15-year old Kyle Shuey, son of Rich and Terry Shuey who stand on the right with their daughter, Allison, 13. A story on page 9 tells more of their overall management. On page 8 is the story of their lifetime butterfat production cow, Little Hill Exclaim Lady. Photo by Dieter Krieg

PERIODICAL • DO NOT DELAY

Sherry's
Market Moos

13

NUTRITION AND
HERD HEALTH INFORMATION
FEATURED IN THIS ISSUE.

News from
Pa. Holstein

17

THE WEEKLY DAIRY FARM FAMILY MAGAZINE